Modernism Also to Be Discussed

Big Issues May Come Before Lutheran Convention

300 Delegates Arrive

Dr. H. G. Stub, President of District, Coming On Wednesday

Modernism vs. fundamentalism may be one of the big issues which will be fought out during the annual convention of the Eastern district of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America which opened its sessions in the auditorium of the Central high school Wednesday morning.

A resolution placing the convention on record as opposed to war, is also said to be ready for introduction when the time is ripe.

Dr. H. G. Stub, St. Paul, general president, who was scheduled to give his report Wednesday morning had not arrived late Wednesday afternoon and it was reported that he would not be here until Thursday.

Approximately 300 pastors and delegates were in attendance Wednesday afternoon.

The Rev. J. Nordby, Deerfield, Eastern district president, gave his report in Norwegian Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Stub, it is understood, will ask the convention to take some action regarding the current issue of fundamentalism vs. modernism.

Need Communion.

"The most needful thing to a Christian life in this busy and strenuous day is a quiet, trustful communion with God," Rev. Anderson said. "We are not lacking in a variety of church activities and spirited conventions, nor in inspiring addresses and helpful sermons, but where we fall short is in the quiet devotional life from day to day.

"The world has never challenged our Christian manhood and resources as it does today," he said. "True, it affords a wonderful opportunity for us, but it not only requires the best in us to be able to meet the issues squarely, but it requires God in us."

Delegates to the convention here are being taken care of in the homes of Bethel Lutheran church members. The money taken in by the church members in this way will be donated to the fund being

Former Madisonians Change Boats In Mid-Ocean When Big Liner's Engines Break Down

Mrs. Geo. P. Miller and Daughters Meet With Thrilling Experience

Word has been received here of an accident in mid-ocean in which several people, well known in Madison, were transferred from one liner to another following the summoning of a second boat wireless.

Among those who were transferred from the liner Ansonia to a French steamer from Cherbourg were Mrs. George P. Miller and her daughters, Mrs. Jenks L. Brady and Miss Nancy Lee Miller. The Millers are well known in Madison. Mr. Miller was formerly with the Hokanson Auto Co., here and at present is president of the Nash Sales Co., in Chicago. The Millers lived on Rutledge street here for many years.

Mrs. Miller and her daughters left Montreal on May 23 aboard the liner Ansonia for a trip to Europe. While nearing Cherbourg the engines on the Ansonia went out of commission and the vessel began to drift. The wireless was set in motion and help was summoned from Cherbourg. The Ansonia continued to drift all day Sunday and the passengers were not transferred to the other vessel until next morning.

Mrs. Miller and her daughters expect to visit France, Italy and England. Mrs. Miller was born in England and has not visited England since her girlhood.

Nancy Lee Miller.

Foster Tells St. Paul Meet Communists Not Trying to Get Control

Are Victors In First Test Vote on Committee Organization

(By the Associated Press.)

ST. PAUL — William Mahoney, leader of the more conservative elements in the National Farmer-Labor Progressive convention, and William Z. Foster, Communist, today assured the delegates that no bolt was in immediate prospect and "no capture" of the orgtnization was intended.

In his statement Foster said:

"I want to state on behalf of the Workers' party that we have not come here to capture the convention. We realize that inorder for a Farmer-Labor party to be a success it cannot be a Communist party.

"We do not expect to see come out of this convention a Communist program, or Communist candidates nominated. We expect to see a platform which will rally the great mass of farmers and workers.

"We repudiate the statements made in the press. The statements are made for the purpose of destroying the Farmer-Labor movement."

Sen. Magnus Johnson, of Minnesota, who arrived here today to give a series of addresses in North Dakota, said that although he had been invited to speak at the Farmer-Labor convention in St. Paul, he had refused as he did not approve of the Communist element

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Faced with financial troubles, coming on top of a Communistic victory yesterday in the first open skirmish of the gathering, delegates to the National Farmer-Labor Progressive convention today began work in an uncertain state of mind.

Charles E. Taylor, state senator from Montana, elected permanent chairman of the convention yesterday, said he had no definite program in mind for today aside from the selection of standing committees and his formal speech.

Sen. Magnus Johnson had been tentatively proposed as a speaking member of the convention by William Mahoney, temporary chairman, but the initial successes of the Communists made his appearance before the convention doubtful. Chairman Taylor was not certain whether the Minnesota senator would be formally invited.

The financial troubles arose from the unwillingness of St. Paul civic organizations to guarantee the $150 daily retnal for the convention hall in the Municipal Auditorium, if the extremists controlled the convention. It is customary here for the St. Paul Ass'n. of Public and Business Affairs to assume this burden. News of the possible withdrawal of the guarantee reached C. E. Bugge, manager of the auditorium and he announced that unless three days rental was forthcoming, he would bar the convention from the hall. Mahoney announced he would be responsible for any portion of the rent not assumed by the association.

Communists hailed their victory of yesterday as an indication of ability to put over their program for an immediate third party organization. They based on the result of a vote which blocked immediate selection of standing committees and forced an adjournment until today.

Youthful Hobo Waits Justice On Gun Charge

Adventurer Runs Afoul the Law On Tour Here

A 17-year-old boy, who armed with a revolver, set out to see the world from the top of a railroad box car, is waiting in the county jail here for sentence from Judge A. C. Hoppman after being captured in local railroad yards, making his escape and being recaptoured.

The youth, Raymond Smith, abode unknown, always carried a gun, he told railroad detectives in the Northwestern road yards Tuesday when they arrested him. He declared he was "just going through" and was "on the bum." He was taken to headquarters by Patrolman Bert Prideaux.

While being taken to superior court later Tuesday, the adventurous boy made his ascape from police custody. Five hours later he was recaptured in the Northwestern road yards.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying concealed weapons

Now he is waiting in the county jail while the judge tries to find out who he is, where he is from, and what he will do to correct him.

2 Dane County Sons Helped U. W. Triumph In East; Plan Big Welcome For Crew Here

Oscar Teckemeyer — Ralph Schuetz

Wisconsin's victory at Poughkeepsie on the Hudson Tuesday afternoon when the crew captured second place in the annual collegiate regatta, brought more than the usual thrill to Dane county people because Oscar Teckemeyer and Capt. Ralph Schuetz, two of her own sons played an important part in the triumph of east aver west.

Capt. Ralph Schuetz hails from Middleton, a village seven miles out of Madison, and Oscar Teckemeyer is a local product, having been born and raised here. He is a graduate of the Centrl high school, and is a son of William J. Teckemeyer, president of the Teckemeyer Candy Co.

A welcome home that will rival any reception ever accorded a Wisconsin athletic team is being planned here. T. E. Jones, chairman of the athletic department has wired New York alumni today asking when the boys intend to return. When the time is known it will be the signal to start plans for a big celebration. Wisconsin banners will be displayed throughout the business district and Latin quarter; a parade will be held from the depot to the Capitol square where appropriate talks will be given by crew members, and an address will be given by some prominent Madisonian and state official.

Definite plans for the welcome will not be made until Mr. Jones learns when the boys are to return. Some of them will be back immediately, however, as they graduate with the class of 1924 and will take part in the graduation exercises.

Cottage Grove Trio Arrested After Robbery

Thomas Reynold Held With Pals On Booze Count

Three Cottage Grove men are being held in the county jail here in connection with the robbery and manhandling of John Angus Tuesday night in the home of Thomas Reynolds, Cottage Grove.

The men, Thomas Reynolds, Charles Killian Jr., and Alvin Jorde are alleged to have set upon Mr. Angus while he was in the Reynolds home and to have stripped him of his clothing robbed him of his watch and $18 in cash and to have later thrown him in a creek near the village.

Angus is under a doctor's care at Cottage Grove.

Reynolds, twice convicted of violating the state dry law, is being held under total bonds of $2,500 after pleading not guilty to a charge of selling and manufacturing moonshine. The complaint on the liquor count was made by F. W. Hildreth, village marshal.

Jorde and Killian are being held under $1,500 bail each on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm after pleading not guilty before Judge A. C. Hoppmann here Wednesday. Reynolds is held under both the assault and booze charges. Preliminary hearings for the men will be held Friday.

Archbishop Ill; Delay Catholic Meeting Today

Archbishop S. G. Messmer was unable to come to Madison to speak at a dinner at the Park hotel Wednesday noon and the meeting was called off. The prelate is ill with rheumatism, the local Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Women's club, in charge of the function, were notified. The weekly luncheon of the Knights of Columbus luncheon club also was postponed.

S. American Road Men Are Guests Today

Met By Commission and Entertained By Local Clubs

Latin-American delegates comprising the Pan-American highway commission who are touring the United States inspecting highways, arrived in Madison at 7:30 Wednesday morning from Duluth, Minn., and were met by members of the state highway commission who will entertain them during their stay here. There are 55 delegates making the tour.

Following breakfast at the Loraine, the delegates were taken on a tour through the university, Forest Products laboratory and the Capitol building. They were entertained at noon luncheon at the hotel.

Wednesday afternoon a tour was taken over highwaay 12 to Sauk City, from there on highway 60 to its intersection with 23, and on 23 to its intersection with 12, on which they were to return to Madison.

Frank Cannon, secretary of the Wisconsin Good Roads association, has been named the chief speaker at a banquet to be given in honor of the tourists at the Loraine hotel Thursday night. This banquet is being sponsored by local civic clubs and Association of Commerce.

Thomas H. Mac Donald, director of the American Road Builders' association, will speak.

Prof. W. O. Hotchkiss, chairman of the state highway commission, will preside. Frank Keuhl, secretary to Gov. John J. Blaine, will welcome the delegates in behalf of the state.

Thursday morning the delegates will leave by car for Kenosha. They will take the train from Kenosha to Chicago, their next stop.

Mrs. C. F. Kennedy, 204 North Brearly street, is entertaining her mother Mrs. J. C. Wynn and her granddaughter, Miss Evelyn Kingdon of Beloit.

May Oust 'Rebels' By Legal Steps

"Follow Me Or Resign," Is Ultimatum of Governor

"This Is Final!" He Says

Says Answers to His Attack Were Evasive and Unsatisfactory

BULLETIN

Gov. Blaine has made serious charges against members of the state highway commission and it is up to him to substantiate or withdraw them, W. H. Hotchkiss, chairman of the highway commission declared today, commenting on Governor Blaine's latest communication.

"The Governor evaded the issue in his latest letter and is attempting to becloud the highway problem," Chairman Hotchkiss said. "The commission asked him to produce evidence on his charges of inefficiency and official misconduct. He has failed to do so."

Chairman Hotchkiss expressed belief that none of the appointive members on the highway commission will resign.

A virtual request for the resignations of those members of the state highway commission who are unwilling to follow his highway program was made by Governor Blaine today in a letter addressed to the commission.

The Governor's final answer to the commission was laid down in the following statement:

"Those of the highway commission who cannot whole-heartedly cooperate with me in carrying out the well-defined policies set forth before the commission know wherein their duty lies, and in the course of time, as the public's interests may require, the personnel of the commission will be treated according to the orderly processes of law and not through any newspaper controversy."

This statement is interpreted by those close to the governor to be an invitation to the highway commissioners not in entire sympathy with the executive's program to tender their resignations. In case they fail to do so, the governor promises legal steps to remove a portion of the commissioners at least.

The governor indicated that the matter of communications between himself and the commission is at an end, in the following:

"I have definitely outlined a program and fixed the limits to which the highway department may go, and such determination will stand unaltered."

Mr. Blaine reiterated his statements in previous letters and declared that the answers he has received from the commission are been indefinite and unsatisfactory.

The highest temperature yesterday was 67 at 1 p. m., and the lowest last night was 54 at 6 a. m. The total precipitation was .55. The sun sets at 7:40.

The barometer is high with fair and cooler weather in the lake regions. An extensive area of low barometer prevails in the Rocky Mountains and on the middle and southern plains where the temperature is high. Between these two disturbances the weather is showery, with fresh southerly winds. More than an inch of rain fell at LaCrosse, St. Louis, and Toledo.

Dawes Raps Demagogues In First Talk

Candidate for Vice President Makes First Address

(By the Associated Press.)

CHICAGO — No quarter will be given the demagogue in the coming campaign by Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice presidential nominee, he declared last night in his first extended utterance since his selection as running mate to President Coolidge. He spoke to friends and neighbors at his home in Evanston.

William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, attended the reception at which Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, James A. Patten, grain operator and John C. Schaffer, a newspaper publisher, spoke.

"To such an extent has grown the evil of demagoguery among politicians," Gen. Dawes said, "that the real facts and the economic principles involved in questions of national policy are continually obscured by a dense and putaid fog of demagogic argument, designed simply for the purpose of forwarding selfish personal, political and group interests."

His recent experiences in Europe, he said had shown him the demagogue method of treating serious questions that had brought Europe "to the very brink of the abyss."

Check Fair Funds

Zimmerman, Fair Association, Plan to Prevent Fraud Payment of State Aid

Agreement by which premium winners at state, district and county fairs must have entry and premium approvals from the fair judge as a means of preventing illegal payment of state aid to fair associations, was reached at a conference here Monday of directors of the Wisconsin Association of Fairs and Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman.

Deputies of the state department will inspect all fairs operating in the state to make a double check on premium lists and verify payments. Approval of the premiums made by judges will be made in duplicate in the future and one copy must be sent to the state department for checking and verification.

The new arrangement was made to prevent unfair payment of state aid by associations, it was stated. Inspectors of the state department were here and were given instructions for checking up fair secretaries and officials in premium work.

Those attending the conference from the state associations were A. W. Prehn, Wausau, president; F. W. Borcherdt, Manitowoc, vice president; James Malone, Beaver Dam, secretary; L. E. Ross, Superior, treasurer; A. L. Putnam, Chippewa Falls; Taylor Brown, Oshkosh, and A. C. Taylor, Wautoma, directors.

Religious Day School to Name More Teachers

Additional teachers will be appointed to handle the large number of pupils enrolled this year in the Religious Day school, it was announced Tuesday. The appointments will be made later.

The enrollment of the central group, attending the Christ Presbyterian and First Baptist churches, this year totals 316, compared with 189 attending in 1923. Many of the classes have been divided.

The East Side school at the Plymouth Congregational church numbers 158 pupils, compared with 125 enrolled last year. The West Side school, conducted at the St. Andrew's and Westminster churches has 90, instead of the 85 of 1923.

Unused Emergency Fund to Continue Next Year

A ruling declared to be important as to emergency funds voted by the state emergency board was made Tuesday. The ruling, made by Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, holds that emergene appropriations are continuing and unexpended balances at the end of the fiscal year will continue for the following year.

The ruling was issued as the result of the delay at some of the state schools in the construction work approved by the state emergency board several months ago. Some of the schools, including the state university and several normal schools, may have funds left over on July 1, the end of the fiscal year, it is said.

Court Again Waits While Man Enjoys Honeymoon

Speeding charges against E. E. Kochneke, continued twice in superior court, were again held in abeyance Tuesday when a friend appeared for the man and informed the court that the alleged offender of the traffic ordinance was still on his honeymoon.

Kochneke was to have been arraigned June 7, but he was married on that day and the case was continued to June 10. But the man was then on his honeymoon and the charges were continued. Kochneke is expected to answer the charges in person on Saturday.

W. Sinaiko Is Owner of Silver Springs Water Co.

Trundles Baby Cab On Long Hunt for Husband

BALTIMORE — After trundling her 2-year-old baby here from Cumberland, Md., in a small carriage, Mrs. Violet Catanese, 18, collapsed. She said she was hunting her husband, who left her several weeks ago in search of work.

Hospital Patient Death Accidental, Jury Holds

OSHKOSH, Wis.— William Bartlett came to his death from injuries accidentally received, which produced bronchial pneumonia. That was the verdict of the coroner's jury called by the district attorney at the request of Dr. Adin Sherman, superintendent of the Northern Hospital for the Insane, to find out by what means the aged resident of Lanark, Portage county, sustained two broken ribs while a patient at the institution.

There was nothing in the testimony to show that Bartlett had been roughly used and the only other cause that could be attributed was that, in falling, when he arose from his bed, the aged man struck his side against a chair or the side of the iron bed.

Train Feeble Minded to Do Work--Lorenz

Control Board Head Speaks at Last Summer Gyro Meet

Vocational training of feeble minded persons is the best method of relieving the cost of the upkeep of this class of people from the state, according to Dr. W. F. Lorenz, president of the state board of control, who spoke Tuesday night at a meeting of the Gyro club at the Park hotel.

A number of Rotarian from other cities were present. Dr. W. A. Evans, president of the Dixon, Ill., club was also present.

"There are 5,000 feeble minded children in the schools of the state who should be given special training if they are not to become charges of the state," said Dr. Lorenz. "These people are easily trained and habits that are fixed with them might just as well be good as bad ones. Marriage of the feeble minded should be prevented as much as possible to prevent further increase of their numbers."

The talk was illustrated by a film made under the direction of Dr. M. E. Diemer of the extension division of the university. Scenes at the Union Grove and Chippewa Falls schools were shown.

The club will not meet again during the summer, but will reconvene in the fall. A picnic will be held sometime during the summer.

Milwaukee Road Starts Marquette Excursions

Special excursion trains between Madison and Marquette-Lansing, Ia., will be run on the Milwaukee road starting Sunday, June 22. Special low round trip rates are being offered. The fare for these trips is less than the regular one-way fare. The best equipment on any train on the Milwaukee road is used for these excursions.

Dry Raiders Capture Speed Boat In Battle

NEW YORK—A 35-foot motor boat containing seventy cases of liquor was captured by customs officers in a speedy revenue cutter today after a five-mile chase, during which fifty shots were fired. One of the shots riped through the gas tank of the motor boat, setting it afire. Three men were arrested.

Woman Opens Campaign for Texas Governorship

Milwaukee Drill Teams Win Pythian Sisters Competition

Iris temple, No. 8, Milwaukee, with a score of 92 points won first place in the competitive drill team contests of the Pythian Sisters convention Tuesday afternoon at the lodge room in the Beaver building. Other winners were America temple, No. 33, Milwaukee, second, with a score of 88 points and Purity temple, No. 26, Milwaukee, third, with a score of 85 points.

The auto tour of the city which was to have been taken Tuesday afternoon was postponed until on Wednesday morning because of the bad weather. An inspection of the capitol will follow the auto ride with luncheon following.

Fifty-four past grand chiefs were given the grand temple degree on Tuesday afternoon before an audience of nearly 400 members. The degree work was exemplified by the grand officers of the lodge. Memorial services for 80 members who died during the year were conducted following the degree work.

The official reports of the grand officers of the lodge were given late Tuesday afternoon preceding the adjournment before the drill team contests. Members attended the dance in the Cameo room following the competitive drills.

raised for the purchase of a site for a new church here.

There will be no election of officers in the Eastern district this years, since the officers hold their positions for three year terms.

The big meeting of the convention will be held Sunday at Olin park, formerly Monona park. Services will be conducted in the large auditorium. The principal address will be delivered by the Rev. Gustave Stearns, chaplain of the 32nd division during the world war. The Rev. E. A. Anderson of Mt. Horeb will conduct the liturgical service.

Sunday afternoon the Luther College Concert band from Decorah, Ia., will play a concert at the park.

The Missionary Federation of the Eastern district will hold its annual meeting here Wednesday evening and Thursday. Wednesday evening a reception will be held for the federation delegates by Mrs. O. G. U. Siljan, president of the district, at Bethel Lutheran church.

On Thursday the business session will be held at the church. Mayor I. M. Kittleson will give the address of welcome. Mrs. Siljan will deliver her annual report as president and reports of committees will be received. Addresses on home mission work and musical programs have been arranged for the afternoon and evening.

See Recovery of $3,000,000 In Mail Loot

$100,000 Securities are Found; 8 Men, 2 Women Held

CHICAGO — Recovery of most of the $3,000,000 loot taken by bandits in a holdup last Thursday night of a Milwaukee road mail train near here is expected today by police and postal inspectors searching for three men, said to be named in evidence unearthed by the investigators.

Non-negotiable securities valued at $100,000, $5,000 in $5 bills and 61 registered mail pouches taken in the holdup have been recovered, and eight men and two women are in custody. Enough evidence has been obtained to justify charging all the men with the robbery and the women with being accessories, according to Chief Collins.

A check-up of the pouches recovered indicates that the robbers took one package containing $500,000 in Liberty bonds, shipped from a New York bank to St. Paul. The package bonds. More than $500,000 in Lib- contained five hundred $1,000 erty bonds of smaller denominations was obtained from other packages and approximately $100,000 in currency. The $5,000 parcel of $5 bills was evidently overlooked.

J. H. Wayne, one of the suspects, found with five bullet wounds and thought shot during the hold-up, was reported dying in a hospital.

One of the women held, known as Miss Mead of Milwaukee, has been identified as Mrs. Louise Newton, 30 year old widow of New London, Wis. She was taken into custody when she attempted to take $20,000 from a safe deposit box rented by James Watson, one of the men held.

Drews' Statutory Case Continued to July 15

The preliminary hearing for Edward Drews, railroad man, charged with a statutory offense, was continued to July 15 by Judge A. C. Hoppmann Tuesday.

Road Chiefs Told to Quit By Governor

"indefinite and unsatisfactory," and "indicate evasion and inaction."

The letter in part follows:

"My letters dated May 19, 22, and 26, were definite and specific and called for action. Your replies have and indicate evasion and inaction, and you have misrepresented to me matters pertaining to your duties and vital to the governor in the administration of laws.

"I am still convinced that a majority of the commission is in that frame of mind to obstruct the proper administration of laws and to embarass the administration by the Governor.

"I will not be drawn away from my course to bring about efficiency, economy and retrenchment in the highway department by your attempt to engage me in a newspaper controversy or by your attempt to inject personal politics into the conduct of the highway department.

"The point I want to keep clearly before you is that the taxpayers of this state cannot afford to expend $40,000,000 annually, or $40 out of every $100 in taxes paid, on a highway program, when the farmers and small business men and other taxpayers are passing through this crisis of depression. The highway building program has been forced and overestimated by the highway department.

"We boast of the fact that the state has no bonded indebtedness. But in the last six or seven years the counties have authorized approximately $40,000,000 in bonds for highway construction, and the most therof has been issued.

"In every county in which bonds were proposed the highway department, at the expense of the state of Wisconsin, has engaged in an active campaign in local affairs in promoting the adoption of county bond issues. Counties have been approached with propositions that, if they raised large sums of money by taxation or bonds, the highway department would meet the amount in some proportion out of state funds. Counties have been told that if they did not accept the mandate of the highway department they would lose the state money and it would go elsewhere in the state. Counties have had imposed upon them assessments for highway purposes of the highway department without the consent of county authorities.

"This evidence is proof that the highway department in the last several years has been active in forcing and over-stimulating highway construction. New York, which has fifteen times the wealth of Wisconsin, has built less surfaced roads, and the state of Pennsylvania, which has fourteen time the wealth of Wisconsin, has only constructed two-thirds as many miles of surfaced highways as Wisconsin.

"This situation is a nice thing to blow and brag about, but it is the taxpayers of Wisconsin that have borne the tremendous burden."

Board Drops Aide At State Reformatory

C. Brostom Fails to Be Reappointed; No Cause Given

The state board of control had failed to re-elect C. Brostom as assistant superintendent of the state reformatory for boys at Green Bay, it was announced Wednesday by John Hannan, secretary of the board. No cause for refusal to re-elected the assistant superintendent was given.

(By the Associated Press.)

GREEN BAY, Wis. — When informed that the secretary of the board had announced that he would not be re-elected assistant superintendent of the reformatory, Charles Brostom said that he had been informed of the board's action last week, and that he then went to Madison for an interview. Except for the fact that no charges were filed, nor were complaints of any kind lodged against him he learned little, he declared.

For the last four and one-half years Mr. Brostom has been assistant superintendent of the reformatory. He came here from Stillwater, Minn., penitentiary.

He has had 20 years of prison experience.

It is rumored that George Bernhagen, assistant deputy warden at Waupun, will succeed Mr. Brostom.

County "Wetter" Now Than In Old Days

An increase of 524 drunks in 1923 over 1918, the last year before the passage of the national prohibition amendment, are noted in Dane county court records, it was announced here Wednesday.

In 1918 there were 131 persons arrested for super-intoxication in Dane county; in 1923 there were 655. Present indications are that 1924 will establish a new high record.

In 1923, when "wet" days were supposed to have been in full swing, there were only 183 persons arrested in Dane county for drunkenness.

The court and police records show a constantly increasing ness during the last eleven number of arrests for drunkenyears.

In 1913 there were 183 arrests; there were 184 in 1914; 218 in 1915, 237 in 1916, 122 in 1917, 131 in 1918, 104 in 1919, 190 in 1920, 345 in 1921, 610 in 1922, and 655 in 1923.

How I Found Happiness

by Marguerite Clark

By MARGUERITE CLARK
Famous Stage and Screen Star who Has Retired and is Now Mrs. Harry P. Williams

Marguerite Clark, happy housewife.

PATTERSON, La.—I have given up fame for happiness.

No longer do I see my name in the lights of Broadway or Main street. The millions who once watched my acting have, perhaps, largely forgotten me.

Through trains do not stop at the town where now I live—they roar past, Hollywood-bound, and I have no regrets. Only the slow locals pause here.

But I am playing my greatest role, the greatest role in any woman's life! I play to an audience of one—my husband—in a theater, which is my home.

Raises Chickens

Less than six years ago we were married and I retired to this home. Calls came for me to return, but no golden promises of fame and fortune could lure me.

I find happiness in raising chickens, in working among my flowers, in raising dogs and attending to other duties so dear to a woman's heart. I believe I could find similar happiness if I had to work hard in a smaller home.

My only regret is that I know so little. I wish, when a girl, I had learned all the duties of a housewife. Sometimes I send the servants away just to see what a good time I can have. And while the food may be a little hard on Mr. Williams, I certainly enjoy myself.

What a contrast between the rush of movie life and the ease of the home!

One day on a movie lot producing a big picture is more enervating, requires greater exertion and takes a greater toll of physical and mental stamina than weeks of toil as a housewife.

Home More Beautiful

You never can be your natural self. You sometimes have to portray characters that are not pleasing to your sensibilities. There is never any rest.

In the pictures we become overly ambitious. We forget the gentler, kindlier sides of life. All our efforts seem directed to seeing our names in big type and bright lights.

In the home a woman's work is a labor of love. Her ambition is to please those who surround her. No work seems hard. There are no late hours, except on special occasions. And when a woman is tired, she can rest.

The construction of a home is more beautiful than any scenery ever painted. It is something real. A picture at best lasts only a few years, but what we do in the home goes on and on.

Her Own Flowers

In the pictures and on the stage I received many flowers, but they usually were bought from florists. Here at home I raise my own flowers. I see them grow from tiny seed. I see the rain fall on them and the sun smile on them. They are a part of me.

My pets; growing from tiny things to maturity, also feel to be a part of me. I see my husband and my friends happy.

Of course, if a girl wants to slave, if she wants to suffer the pangs of ambition, if she wants to fight temptations, if she has genius, beauty, money to be independent and the stage and movies call her, I say give it a trial.

But always look to the future, because some day in the life of every woman, the happiness of home will loom and she should be ready to go.

Service to Society

FUNDAMENTALLY, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a service organization. Directors, employes, and shareholders are moved by one ambition—to make this Company great in its ability to serve the community.

It was the furtherance of this ambition which caused the Management to take steps to secure a wide distribution of shares in this Company. To do this it was necessary to get the price per share down to a point where investors of moderate means would find the stock attractive. This was accomplished by distributing the working surplus among the shareholders, as a stock dividend, and reducing the par value from $100 to $25.

Today the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is owned by 46,016 shareholders —12,135 of whom are employes; and 13,253 are women — no single shareholder owns as much as 6% of the total stock and the price per share at this writing is $57.00.

Among the larger shareholders are many educational and philanthropic institutions who depend upon the dividends derived from their holding in this Company to carry on certain phases of their work.

For example, we cite the Rockefeller Foundation and the General Educational Board whose activities extend to all parts of the world, bettering the living conditions for millions, lessening the burdens of the afflicted, enlightening the youth, and expanding the educational facilities of the world.

The service rendered to society by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is of a broad and varied nature. Not only does it supply the thirty million people of ten Middle Western states with petroleum products of superior quality in such a way as to have gained their confidence, respect and esteem, but the profits accruing to the shareholders from the operations of this Company are used in large part for the welfare of all the people and to make the world a better place in which to live.

Sails To Study For 6 Months In Capital Of Peru

Prof. Graham Stuart

Prof. Graham H. Stuart of Leland Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, will sail June 24, on the steamship "Manchuria" Callao, Peru, from which point he will proceed to Lima, the capitol of Peru, for a six months' study of Peruvian political institutions. His studies are under the direction of the Pan-American Union, Washington, D. C.

Until last September, Prof. Stuart was a member of the political science department of the University of Wisconsin.

At the end of his first semester's work at Palo Alto, he received a promotion in rank and was made a trustee on the Hoover War Memorial library, an institution said to contain the finest collection of war manuscripts of any library in this country. He was granted six months' leave of absence on pay by the Leland Stanford trustees in order to do this research work for the Pan-American Union.

Say City to Act to Curb Monona Odor

Expect Action to Follow Massmeeting of Irate Residents

Definite steps toward curtailment of the offensive odors rising from Lake Monona are expected as a result of the massmeeting which will be held in the Cameo room of the Beaver building on Thursday night.

Residents on the stores of the lake and generally throughout the city are aroused over the apathy of of the city officials in not taking definite steps toward solution of the odors at the time of the Alvord and Burdick report received and tabled several years ago.

Members of the city council declared Tuesday that tney are willing to go to any length to better the condition of the lake. Mandamus action against the city may be started by residents. The odors, they contend, are caused by the dumping of waste materials into the lake from manufacturing plants on the shores.

One suggestion which has been made and may be sponsored by members of the common council would provide for the dredging and filling in of all shallow places in the lake and straightening the shoreline.

Engineers contend that the principal cause of pollution is the presence of small bays and indentations in the short line into which the scum drifts and is prevented from drifting further by the protection of the shore. The scum accumulates in these pockets and decays.

Completion of the locks on the Yahara between Lakes Monona and Waubesa, to stabilize the water level, may also be asked of the common council. This would lessen the shallow water and prevent growth of additional algae.

Frank Schreiber Welcomed Home By Wife; Intends to 'Make Good' Here, He Says

FRANK SCHREIBER, 28-year-old piano salesman who was sentenced to two years in Green Bay reformatory on Feb. 19, by Judge A. C. Hoppmann after a jury in superior court had found the man guilty of obtaining $1,000 under false pretenses from Mrs. Bertha Adams, widow, and who was pardoned by Gov. J. J. Blaine Tuesday, will live in Madison and will try to make good in the city in which he "went wrong," he informed a representative of The Capital Times Wednesday.

Schreiber arrived in Madison shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday morning and went direct to the home established by wife at 807 Clymer place.

When asked if he intended remaining in the city Mr. Schreiber replied:

"Why not? I have some obligations here that I must meet and I have never lost my old job.

"It may take me some time to get going again, because I have experienced death. I don't mean that I was abused at the institution — I wasn't. The authorities there treat everybody fine. They try to make it seem like a boarding school, but the monotony of the place and the realization that I had done wrong preyed on my mind.

"I used to sit in my cell, take inventory of myself and say, 'Frank Schreiber, you've been a fool,' although I do not think I was entirely to blame for the unfortunate affair which has brought a great deal of suffering to my wife.

"I certainly am glad to get out of that place and to get back to my family. I hope people do not think too badly of me and that they will give me a chance. I think I have had enough punishment without being 'hounded' for something that no one regrets more than I do.

"I am 28 years old, but if I should die now I would die 50 years old for what I have been through."

Mrs. Anna Schreiber, wife, and Frank, Jr., 3 year old son of the couple, are glad to get the husband and father back.

"What do you think of the boy, a regular fellow, isn't he?" the father inquired as the lad dashed into the house and pleaded with his father to go fishing.

"Not now, son, not now," the boy was informed. "We'll go fishing a little later. We have too much to think of now and too much to do."

William Simms Buried Wednesday Afternoon

Funeral services for William Edward Simms, 21, former Central high school cheer leader and student who died June 12 in Denver, Colo., were held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the Gill undertaking parlor here.

Interment was made at Forest Hill cemetery in the family lot. The Rev. J. H. Farribee officiated.

Pallbearers were: Baylus Owens, Harold Anderson, Albert Wicks, Jess Smith, Theodore Washington and Albert Weaver.

VICTIMS OF SELF POISONING GRATEFUL FOR DR. THACHER'S

Remarkable Prescription of Dr. Thacher Ends Cause of Sick-Headaches, Constipation, Sour Stomach and Nervous, Run-Down Condition.

Poisoned! Made sick by neglecting to cleanse and tone the Liver when it is sluggish and clogged up with poisonous waste! This is why so many wake up feeling dull and tired—tongue coated, bad taste, and offensive breath.

It explains why a sluggish liver is attended by such symptoms as Constipation, Biliousness, Sick-Headaches, Sourness and Gas on a Weak Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Pains in the Back and Sides, and a nervous, run-down condition—symptoms that lead to the dangerous and expensive sick-bed unless corrected in time.

Dr. H. S. Thacher, noted medical practitioner, perfected a wholesome vegetable prescription to keep the liver healthy. It is giving quick relief and renewed strength, energy and vigor to numbers here. This prescription, known pharmaceutically as Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup, doesn't cost much, is pleasant to take, and contains only ingredients that are known to physicians for their corrective and health-building properties.

Try this great prescription yourself. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise, there will be no cost. Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Chas. H. # "Picnic As You Go!"

"You can't beat this for picnic weather," said Bill Jones, as he sat down beside me on the inbound car this morning. "Had the whole family out to Tenney Park for the time of their lives yesterday. In fact they adopted a new motto for the summer, 'Picnic as you go.' It's good for folks to get out under the open sky these fine days, so we're going once a week. Here's where:

1. First, Olin Park, the largest of all. Take the South Madison car to the end of the line, and follow the cement road the remaining few blocks.
2. When you want an inspiring view and a short hike, go out to the end of the Wingra Park line and walk to Sunset Point. Picnic tables, campfire sites.
3. Tenney Park is a fine place to go if you want a cool dip before dinner. Take East Johnson Street car to Baldwin.
4. Of course Vilas Park makes a hit with the kids because they like to make a trip through the zoo. Take the South Madison car to Drake street, or the Wingra Park car to Grant.
5. For wonderful views and a dip in Lake Mendota, we'll take the Wingra Park car to Lorch street, walk south under the shadowy lorch trees to the lake, and down the Drive."

School Board Again Delays Salary Scale

Award Contract; Graduate 9 More High School School Students

Adoption of the salary schedule for Madison teachers was delayed for the third time at a meeting of the board of education due to the lack of a full membership of the board.

The contract for heating and ventilating the new addition to the Emerson school was awarded to the L. W. Rosen Heating Co. The amount of the Rosen bid was $27,348.

An additional appropriation of $30 was made for the purchase of equipment for the summer playgrounds. Additional lights for the exterior of the East Side high school was ordered not to exceed $500.

Marion Catherina E. Jonson and Claude D. Jordan of the Central high school and Irving Hermsmeier, Stanley Kretlow, Al Larson, Orvel Larson, Theodore Pierce, Frank James Pulley, and Harry Nathaniel Sweet of the East Side school were giving certificates of graduation in addition to those granted at the last meeting of the board.

Ruth Skewes and Leonard A. Waehler were appointed to the teaching staff of the high school.

Beavers Leave Monday to Eau Claire Convention

Madison delegates from the local Beaver colony to the Grand colony meeting to be held at Eau Claire June 19—21 will leave Monday for the convention city.

The local delegates are Howard J. Lowry, Mrs. Herman Rowedal, Charles A. Cass, Herman Ballentine and Mrs. Constance Connelly.

The drill team will accompany the delegates to take part in the competitive drills during the convention. An attempt will be made to bring the Grand colony meeting to Madison next year.

House, Filling Station Building Permits Issued

Permits for two dwellings and a filling station were issued Tuesday by G. H. Mason, city building commissioner, representing a total cost of $12,800. Mackie will build an $1,800 filling station at Atwood ave. and Division st.

Former Madison Boy Reads First Mass On Sunday

Rev. H. J. Rocca

Two former Madison boys, who have recently been been ordained in the Catholic priesthood, will read their first masses in Madison churches Sunday morning. The Rev. Fr. H. J. Rocca, son of Mrs. R. Rocca, 1029 Chandler st., will read mass in St. James Catholic church. Rev. Rocca was ordained last Saturday morning at Columbus, O.

Sunday Rev. Rocca will be honor guest of the Christian Mother's Sodality of St. James church, who are entertaining at a banquet in St. James auditorium for the visiting clergy, the relatives of Rev. Rocca, and a number of invited guests. Covers will be placed for 250. Mrs. F. J. Nussebaum is general chairman of arrangements and Mrs. E. W. Klief, who has charge of the decarations, has chosen the papal colors, gold and white, for the banquet hall and table. Mrs. R. Roca, mother of Rev. Rocca and her son, John, are in Columbus to attend the ordination. Rev. Rocca, who graduated from St. James school here before entering the seminary will be detailed to a diocese in Minnesota.

The Rev. Fr. James McCormick, a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McCormick, 1234 Williamson st., will read his first mass Sunday forning in St. Patrick's church. He was ordained last Saturday morning in Washington, D. C.

Chris Christoferson was fined $5 and costs by Judge A. C. Hoppmann yin superior court Wednesday morning when the man pleaded guilty to drunkenness.

Farmers Make Dairy Profit By Pool Plan

Receive 72 Cents On Dollar Through Market System

"For the first four months of the year, we have paid the producer out of every dollar of sales that we have received 72.35 cents. This is f. o. b. his door or farm yard delivery.

The above is the first paragraph in a recent letter from the Whatcom County Dairymen's association, Bellingham, Wash.

These progressive dairymen manufacture their surplus into butter, ice-cream, etc., and deliver their products to the retail stores. The consumer pays 10 cents per quart for 3.8 milk.

All enterprising dairymen are not in the far west. In Barrien county, Michigan, a Producers' association is delivering their dairy products to their customers. A very recent report states:

"We have been able to pay the producer $2.60 per cwt. for 3.5 milk, and take all that he produces at that price."

A surplus of from 25 to 40 per cent is made into butter and other products, and milk is delivered to the consumer, who pays 10c per quart for 3.5 milk.

The consumer's dollar is divided as follows:

|---|---|
| Producer | .72c |
| Factory expense | .11c |
| Selling expense | .10½c |
| Administrative expense | .04½c |
| Bond and interest | .82c |

Fleece Phone Users

Local Manager Says "New Devices" sold to Phone Users are Hindrance

Hundreds of dollars are wasted each year in Wisconsin by people who buy devices to attach to their telephones, according to J. P. Brahany, local telephone manager.

The fact that there are nearly fifteen million telephones in service in the United States offers too large a market to be entirely overlooked by promoters or these devices and as a result the clever salesman lines his pockets by selling these "wonderful discoveries" to the unsuspecting, and before it is realized by the purchaser that the "new device" is ordinarily more of a hindrance than a help, the salesman is in a distant city working on new prospects.

"It is in the interest of our subscribers and in the interest of good telephone service that we ask our subscribers not to buy these telephone attachments," Mr. Brahany says.

"These devices include many types of mouthpieces, receiver attachments and disinfectants, and frequently they get the lines and instruments into trouble. They invariably make it more difficult for us to render efficient telephone service.

"The telephone instrument used by Wisconsin Telephone Co. subscribers and which is provided and maintained by the telephone company has been developed over a period of more than 40 years. The best results can be secured by using this instrument as it stands without the addition of any other attachments."

Must Candle Eggs

30 Case Lots or More for Market Must be Inspected, Nordman Orders Monday

Orders requiring the candling of market eggs and certification of cases were issued Monday by the state department of markets. The order is effective immediately. It applies to all dealers in eggs who handle thirty dozen case lots or more.

The commission further ordered all unmerchantable eggs be removed and returned to producer.

Wisconsin egg producers last year received a premium of one to two cents a dozen over those shipped from Iowa and Missouri during the summer months, due to the better quality of the Wisconsin products, it is said.

"Wisconsin is favorably located for the production of quality eggs," Commissioner Nordman declared in a statement on the order. "An abundance of feed is grown locally in all sections of the state and the dairy business provides by-products in the form of skim milk and buttermilk which can be put to no better use than to feed chickens."

Walsh Named Chairman of Democrat Meet

Cummings Heads Resolution Body; M'Adoo Men Jubilant

Today's oustanding pre-democratic national convention developments were:

1. Sen. Thomas J. Walsh of Montana was nominated by the national committee to be the permanent chairman of the democratic nation.
2. Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut was picked for the chairman of the committee on resolutions, which will draft the platform.
3. Thomas R. Marshall, former vice president, looms as dark horse.
4. Senator Ralston, of Indiana, reported in bad health and eager to retire from race.

NEW YORK — The selection Tuesday of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, to be permanent chairman of the democratic national convention and of Homer S. Cummings as chairman of the committee on resolutions was seen as a victory for William G. McAdoo.

Both selections were made by the democratic national committee, the recommendation of Walsh being tentative and subject to the approval of the convention.

Walsh has declared that he is in favor of McAdoo. Ten of the delegates from his home state are pledged to the former secretary of the treasury.

Close to Wilson

Cummings was closely associated with President Wilson and is said to be strongly inclined toward McAdoo if his own chances fail.

McAdoo men hailed these two appointments with glee. They say this indicates that those who hold allegiance to their chief are in control of the national committee and will be in control of the organization of the convention.

Chances of dark horses were discussed around the hotel corridors today. A boom for Thomas R. Marshall, former vice president, was launched today. He is author of the statement that "what the country needs most is a good nickle cigar."

Some who claim to be informed say Senator Ralston of Indiana, is in ill health and is eager to get out of the race.

Councilmen May Picnic at Sewage Plant Site

The common council has secured a site for its next picnic. The 200 acres purchased for sewage disposal plant purposes will probably be used this year. A resolution asking that arrangements be made for a picnic will probably be introduced at the next meeting of the council by Ald. Roy H. Proctor as president of the council.

Urges Kiwanis to Cooperate With Farmers

International Convention Addressed By St. Louis Man

(By the Associated Press)

DENVER, Col.—The necessity for more personal contact and more practical co-operation between all commercial, scientific, and agricultural factors in the development of communities and the nation, and the need for the realization that the prosperity of no city can be greater than the prosperity of its surrounding territory, were urged Tuesday by Carl J. Baer, manager of the development service bureau of the Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis, in an address before the eight annual convention of all the 1,250 Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada, now being held here.

"Today we are in a critical condition because of the growing breach between the people of the cities and the people on the farms of the country," said Mr. Baer.

"We have failed to look upon agriculture as a business, and the majority of people do not realize that it is the largest business in the world. It is a big business, but in comparison with others, it is not a profitable one. Taking into consideration the investment, the labor, the false credit for the profit because of the rise in land values, and the decreasing fertility of the soil, the average farmer has not been able to accumulate any money in the last fifty years.

"Business men of the cities must see to it that the 45,000,000 people on the farms have an even "break" with city people. Rural children should have the same facilities for education, recreation, and health as city children. Farm people should have equal facilities for educational and financial advancement as the people in the cities.

Badgers Remember Luft

The men are naturally jubilant. One of the first things they did on returning to their headquarters here was to send a huge bunch of flowers to Max Luft, veteran number four oarsmen of the Washington varsity shell, who watched the races from a cot in Vassar hospital, where he is confined with an attack of typhoid fever. The east tonight rings of the effective and decisive victory attained by Washington and Wisconsin. The race will go down in the annals of rowing for all time and Wisconsin has had set for them a high standard of rowing and spirit which will be hard to beat.

The summary:

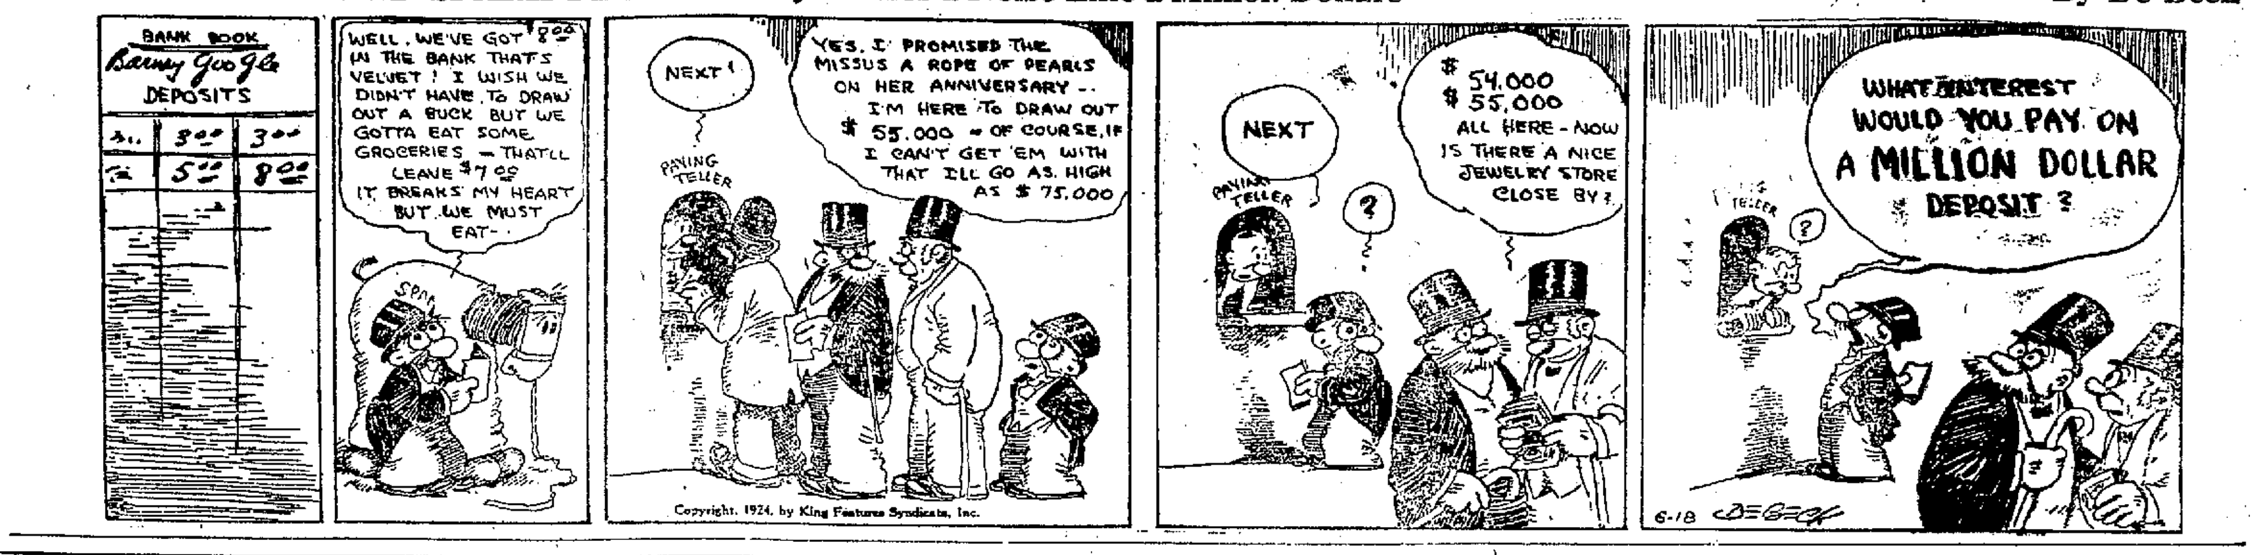

Junior varsity (two miles) — Won by Pennsylvania; second, Washington; third, Columbia; fourth, Syracuse; fifth, Cornell. Time—10:36 2-5; sixth, Columbia, 15:34.

Freshman (two miles)— Won by Pennsylvania; second, Cornell; third Syracuse; fourth, Columbia. Time —10:22 3-5.

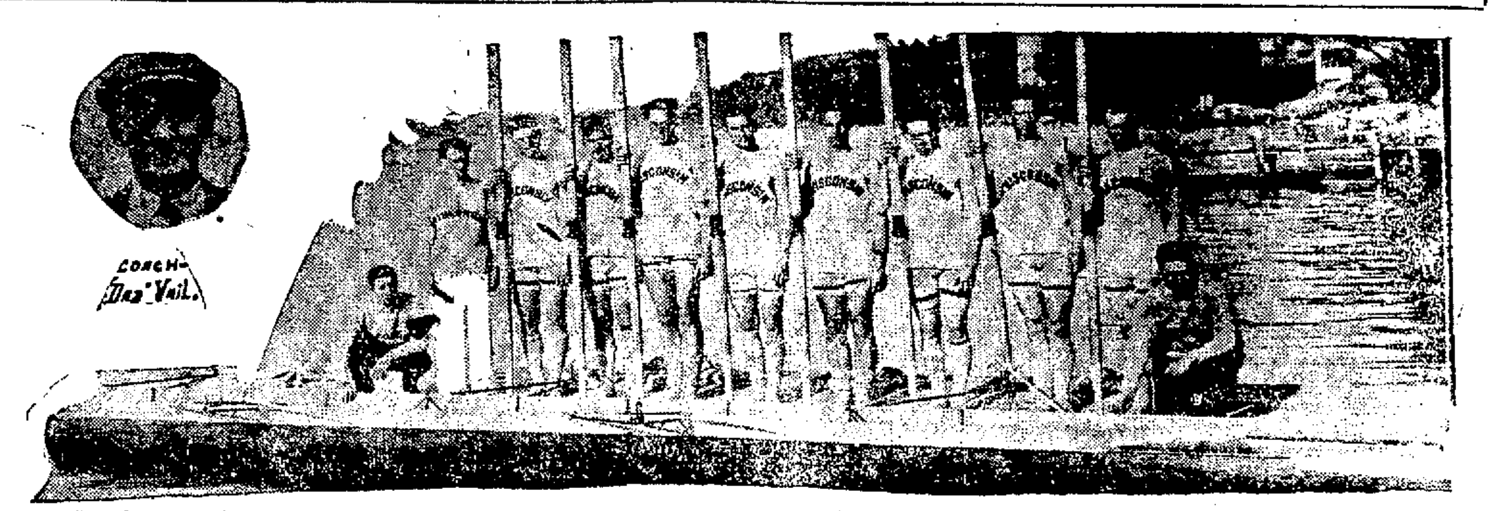

Varsity (three miles)— Won by Washington, 15:02; second, Wisconsin, 15:09 2-5; third, Cornell, 15:15 3-5; fourth, Pennsylvania, 15:23 3-5; fifth, Syracuse, 15:25; sixth Columbia, 15:34.

Spare The Caddy

Rotary President Pleads With Men To Set Example For Youth

TORONTO—Spare the caddies on the golf links the profanity following missed strokes, the double meaning stories told on the greens and while making the round of the links, pleaded International Pres. Guy Gundaker of Rotary International during the course of his annual address to Rotarians from all parts of the world assembled here for the 15th annual convention of the organization.

"Boys," said Pres. Gundaker, "get their habits of mind and conduct from the men with whom they are thrown in contact. The Rotarian should extend his boys' work to the newsboy, the office boy, the delivery boys, the messenger boys and to the golf links where the players have great opportunity to mould the lives of the caddies. Every caddy should find in the mature businessman-golfer a personality worthy of emulation."

Two hundred eighty one new Rotary clubs were organized during the past year of which 211 were in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland, 37 in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, 1 in Cuba and 32 in other sections of the world, Dr. Crawford C. McCullough, extension committee chairman, reported.

Belgian Is Winner of Balloon Race

BRUSSELS, Belgium—Lieutenant Ernest De Muyter, piloting the balloon Belgica, was proclaimed winner of the Gordon Bennett cup race today. He landed at St. Alban's head of the English channel, approximately 600 kilometers from the starting point.

It was the pilot's third consecutive victory, thus clinching the cup for Belgium.

British and American Tennis Women Play Today

WIMBLEDON — The keenly awaited battle for team supremacy between the American and British women lawn tennis players began on the courts here today. In the singles the American champion Miss Helen Wills, had for her opponent, Mrs. Phyllis Covell while Mrs. Molla Mallory, former champion, faced a real test in meeting Kathleen Mc Kane, Great Britain's best.

Miss Leanor Goss and Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup were to carry the American colors in the doubles against Mrs. Shepherd-Barrow and Mrs. Covell.

Quentin Romero Meets Joe Stoessel In N. Y.

NEW YORK—Joe Stoessel, New York heavyweight was picked as the opponent of Quentin Romero in the 12 round final of the Velodrome A. C. card after the state athletic commission refused to accept Andy Schmader Omaha, as an opponent for Jack Renault, Canadian heavy weight.

Waterloo Legion Books Demetral

Jimmie to Wrestle at Firemen's Park the Night of July 11th; Hopes to Forme Parelli Into Match; May Lay Claim to Title

ALTHOUGH Joe Parelli, middleweight wrestling champion of the world has practically denied Jimmy Demetral, chief contender for honors, a chance at the title, the local Greek has hit upon a plan to force the champ into a match, it was learned today through an announcement that the Waterloo American Legion Post has signed Demetral for a match with Tommy Cannon at Firemen's park, Waterloo, Friday, July 11th. When asked what the meaning of it all is, Demetral said:

Is Parelli Afraid?

"I'm sick and tired of trying to get Parelli to meet me for the title, and by going out to these towns in the state and meeting all-comers, I hope to become better known and eventually command the attention of Chicago promoters who will force Parelli into a bout with me."

Demetral said that Parelli first agreed to meet him providing a $3,000 purse was put up as his end. Now, however, the Italian wants a $5,000 purse, according to Jimmy.

$5,000 Purse Absurd

"He knows that such a thing is impossible in Madison and it's his way of getting out of a match with me," he added.

"My friends in Madison and this vicinity are doing all they can for me, but I realize that it is necessary to win still more friends and in this way, unless Parelli agrees to a match, I shall lay claim to the championship," he said.

"I've done all in my power to get Parelli in the ring, but there is a limit to what I can do, and unless Parelli comes around and is willing to wrestle I'll claim the title and have a legitimate claim on it too," he added.

Demetral stated that he will have plenty of bouts in this part of the state during the summer months. Timely Tips—Sports

Hank Casserly's Column

Washington first, Wisconsin second. What a blow to the hopes of the East, who still are back in the the dark ages of sport and still cling to the idea that the East is supreme in athletic lines.

In track, football, basketball, and now in rowing the sons of the middle and far west, having defeated the best the Easterners have to offer, but the effete residents of the New England states are always on top at least in their own minds.

Look at the Yale crew of this year for example. It represents the United States at the Olympic games and should be given a world of credit for defeating the Navy officers. But where does Yale get these crew men?

On their eight of this year are three Minneapolis boys — Alfred Lindley, Alfred Wilson and Leonard Carpenter. Many other noted athletes have gone to the New Haven school from Minneapolis. Walter "Pudge" Heffelinger and the late Tommy Shevlin.

Heffelinger was the only Yale Athlete to win letters in four major sports. He gained the coveted "Y" in football, baseball, track and rowing. "Pudge" played guard on the Yale team of 1888, 1899, 1890 and 1891 and was hailed by Walter Camp and Casper Whitney, leading football experts, as the greatest guard of all time. Camp placed him on his All-American eleven for four years.

Shevlin won letters in three major sports—football, baseball and track. Camp placed Shevlin at end on his All-American teams for three years. He was one of the greatest ends the gridiron ever produced.

Alfred Lindley also is a three sport letter man, having won the emblem in football, hocky and rowing.

Other Minneapolis men have won glory for Yale on the gridiron, diamond and water. Last fall their great All-American tackle was a transfer from Wabash college of Indiana.

One of the most pleasing features of this year's invasion of the East by the Cardinal was the cooperation between the crews of Washington and Wisconsin and also between "Rusty" Callow and "Dad" Vail, coaches of the respective eights.

The Washington crew were nearly as pleased at Wisconsin's finishing second as they were at their own success. As soon as the race was over the Badger crew purchased a huge bouquet of flowers which they sent to Luft, number four of the Washington crew, who has been confined to the hospital for the past ten days with typhoid fever.

* * *

Athletic Director T. E. Jones couldn't say definitely when the crew would return, but plans are under way to give the Badger heroes a welcome that will go down in history as the greatest ever.

Everyone on the Cardinal eight deserves a world of credit and too much cannot be said in praise of their work.

One slight boy who might be overlooked in the general jubilation is "Shorty" Coulter the coxswain of the Barger crew. This mere stripling covered himself with glory by the efficient manner in which he held the Wisconsin crew together saving their energy for the last half mile's desperate struggle. Coulter carved a niche in the hall of fame for himself by his stellar work on Tuesday.

Nevertheless the East still reigns supreme in their own minds. It is to laugh.

Washington was conceded first place by nearly all sport writers and rowing enthusiasts, but none of them gave Wisconsin better than a slight chance to finish as good as third. The Wisconsin crew green and untried was not given a chance to beat Pennsylvania from the representatives of the East.

* * *

"Dad" Vail and his chew should feel prouder today than "Rusty" Callow and his winning varsity eight.

Leaving Madison with numerous flaws and having been held back by the late spring the most enthusiastic Badger rooters were unable to see how the Badgers could finish anywhere but in last place. But the quiet, unassuming "Dad" Vail performed wonders once his green but game eight got on the Hudson. He had trouble at number five, but a few days of experimentation soon fixed that weakness and the Wisconsin boys began to shape into a formidable outfit.

The 50,000 spectators that lined the course and congregated at the finish line cheered the Wisconsin crew until they were hoarse as they passed Columbia, Pennsylvania and finally Cornell to win second honors for the glory of old Wisconsin.

* * *

I can just imagine "Billy" Richardson, former Wisconsin coxswain, and the other alumni of the Badger institution as they followed the fighting Cardinal shell as they passed the cream of the East to finish second. I'll wager that many a straw hat was torn to shreds and many a former Wisconsin man is so hoarse that he will not be able to speak over a whisper for weeks.

It was a glorious climax to our first season at Poughkeepsie after a lapse of ten years, and will go far toward the success of a 1923 crew. Next year we see no reason why Wisconsin shouldn't be represented in all three classes, the Varsity Junior Varsity and Freshman eight oared shells.

"Dad" Vail and his crew have won undying fame both for themselves and their school by their never say die spirit.

"Dad" Vail feels today like a child with a new toy. His happiness is complete. The years have slipped from his frame and once more he is his joyous self.

The Wisconsin crew finished sitting up, not a man collapsed when the race was over. The Badgers were in wonderful condition and too much credit cannot be given to those in charge of the physical condition of the Badger crew.

The Wisconsin golf team composed of Captain Bock, Stegeman, Porter and Spear are set to tee off in the Western Conference championship golf meet at Briergate today.

Bock, the Sheboygan youngster, is a coming star and if he is right should give a good account of himself in this tournament in the individual title holder contest to be held on Saturday.

Don't forget the ball game between Nash Motors and the Madison Blues which takes place Thursday at 5 o'clock at Kipp Field. The Nash team is playing an article of ball that the most ardent fan can find no fault with this team's work.

"Jimmy" Dodge will do the slabbing for the home team while McGuire, the Nash pitching ace, will start for the Nash.

Of interest to Madison horsemen is the sale of the Fairland Breeding farm, located near Lexington, Kentucky, by H. J. Schlessinger of Milwaukee to W. M. Wright, the Chicago baking powder magnate for $300,000.

This farm, one of the finest and most noted in the country will be used by the new owner in training and breeding trotters and pacers. The name of the place will be chaged to the Calumet farm. Dick McMahon, the well known Grand Circuit runsman, is to have general charge of the farm. Mr. Wright, the new owner, was the breeder of Peter Manning, the world's champion trotter, and several others less noted.

Ruth Swats Sweet 16 As Yankees Win

Cleveland Leads 5 to 0 at End of Third But Luck Turns

(By the Associated Press.)

CLEVELAND — Cleveland held New York, 5 to 0, at the end of the third inning, but the Yankees came back in the fourth, when Babe Ruth knocked his sixteenth home run of the season.

Ruth scored the winning run in the seventh from second base while Fewster was throwing out Pipp.

Pipp hit a home run in the sixth with no one on, and Tris Speaker hit one in the first with Jamieson on base.

Senators 12, Sox 6.

CHICAGO — Washington hit four Sox pitchers for fifteen blows which were coupled with errors for a 12 to 6 victory. The game was played in a misty rain. Southpaws Cvengros and Zachary started as pitchers but gave way to Lyons and Marberry, Blankenship finally replacing Lyons only to be relieved by Doug McWeeney in the last two innings.

Tigers 7, Red Sox 4.

DETROIT — Detroit made it three straight from Boston, winning 7 to 4. The victory of the Tigers placed them in second place, replacing Boston. Joe Harris, Red Sox first baseman, had his tonsils removed at Columbus.

Giants Win, 5 to 3.

NEW YORK — The New York Giants defeated St. Louis in the second game of the series here, 5 to 3. The Giants knocked out Sotheron in the fifth inning when they scored four runs on four hits, one of them a home run by Kelly. Bentley pitched an effective game after the early innings for New York.

Cubs 6, Phillies 5.

PHILADELPHIA — Although outhit 3 to 1, Chicago defeated Philadelphia 6 to 5. The Cubs made but four hits but they took full advantage of the poor play.

Pirates 5-0, Braves 2-1.

BOSTON — Pittsburgh and Boston broke even in the Bunker Hill doubleheader here. The Pirates won the opening contest, 5 to 2, while Boston captured the second, 1 to 0. Good pitching marked both contests, but sloppy work by Boston outfielders marred the first game.

Robins 5, Reds, 4.

BROOKLYN— Brooklyn made it two straight from Cincinnati by winning 5 to 4. Four errors combined with four hits off Benton gave the Dodgers the game in the sixth. Rousch hit a double, a triple with two on bases and drew a pass.

Regular Price to Be Charged for Twilight Game

Manager Lenahan, of the local ball team wishes to announce to the fans that no change of the price of admission is contemplated in the coming encounter with the Nash Motors of Kenosha, which takes place at 5 p. m. Thursday Sixty-five cents will entitle the fans to witness one of the highest salaried nines outside of the major league in action.

The management of the Nash baseball club has assured Lenahan that each of their three star pitchers will be on the mound during the game to enable the fans of Madison to see these hurlers in action. McGuire, who is one of the leading twirlers of the Mid-West league will start for the Nash to be replaced by Friday and Marks in the order named.

The Blues practice session for this game to have been held Tuesday was called off due to the heavy rains, but the weather permitting Lenahan will have his colts in action today at Kipp Field.

The ambition of "Jimmy" Dodge's lifetime would be realized should he succeed in turning back the Nash sluggers in this game and the season would be a success insofar as Dodge is concerned.

"King" Lear, a former member of the Milwaukee Association team, is the main cog in the offense and defense of the Nash outfit, but he has plenty of support in Wickland and Dressen, former league stars.

Lenahan has invited the members of the noonday lunch clubs to be present at the game and it is expected that a big turnout from these clubs will be in attendance.

The LAND OF FORGOTTEN MEN

by Edison Marshall

Released by NEA Service, Inc.
Copyright 1923 by Little, Brown & Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Peter Newhall, Augusta, Ga., flees to Alaska, after being told by Ivan Ishmin, Russian violinist, he had drowned Paul Sarichef, Ishmin's secretary. Ishmin and Peter's wife, Dorothy, had urged him to flee to South America. He joins Big Chris Larson in response to a distress signal at sea, giving Larson his sea jacket. Their launch hits rocks. Larson's body is buried as Newhall's. Peter, rescued, finds injuries have completely changed his appearance.

Dorothy and Ishmin go to Alaska, to return Peter's body. They do not recognize Peter in their head guide. A storm strands them at the grave. "Change name," a message from a seance, Dorothy believes to be from Peter telling her to accept Ishmin's marriage proposal. Ishmin goes for supplies. Peter falls in a gully on a hunting trip. Dorothy finds her greatest happiness in rescuing him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She knew now why, even from the first hour, the grim adventure on this shore had been thrilling to her. She knew why she had befriended Pete against Ivan, why his companionship had been so dear and his protection so comforting; and she understood why her whole world had passed into darkness when she had seen him fall. The first caribou hunt, on her first day in the hills, had given her what had hitherto been an almost-forgotten joy; and every day since that joy had increased. Even from the first hour he had called to her, and she had answered. Evidently this love—and it could be nothing else but love—had been predestined, a thing of the instincts that all the barriers of caste and circumstance could not restrain.

But it must never, never be. Only tragedy lay that way, and she had had enough of tragedy. She looked at the matter calmly; and she knew her only possible course.

The barrier between her and the guide was wholly impassable; and it must be forgotten like a vain dream. He was an exile in the North; she was of cities. He was of the storm and the windy shore, the desolation and the solitude; and she was of warmth and laughter and beauty. He was of another plane and caste, and never the two could meet. Besides, she had gone too far with Ivan to turn away from him. She had given him her promise.

She knew her course. In a few more days she and the man who loved her would launch their boat and row away; and Pete would be left on the desolate shore. They would never cross trails again. Slowly these strange, rapturous memories that already seemed like dreams instead of the living events of the hours just gone would pale and die, just as many of the memories of Peter had paled and died; his rugged, homely, yet ever-familiar face would fade in her remembrance; and the drama in the wilderness would be dimmed by the mists of the past. She would live for Ivan. In time the poignant pain would pass away, and she would find the normal contentment of marriage.

As soon as the Russian returned she would remove all danger by putting herself forever out of Pete's reach. Thus she would defeat her willful heart, cheat the enigmatic destiny that had jested with her so long, and perhaps find a humble share of human happiness.

CHAPTER XVI

Ivan Succeeds

Just before noon of the following day Pete—who was resting beside the camp fire—made out a moving speck on the distant, inland hills, and close scrutiny proved it to be Ivan, returning from his quest. In half an hour he would be at camp and Dorothy in his arms.

Pete understood perfectly the full significance of this return. It marked, indeed, the turning point in his own great adventure; his personal watch of the girl would be over, and a few hours thereafter she would sail away.

The one great joy that was left him was to carry the good news to Dorothy and to watch the dear, remembered kindling of her luminous eyes. He made his way quietly to her tent.

"Mr. Ishmin is returning," he told her simply, still in the character of Pete the guide. "He's in plain sight already."

The girl's lips parted, but her face did not at once flush with pleasure. Yet her expression showed instant, unmistakable relief. It was all that was needed to convince Pete that the girl had found her happiness; and he was persuaded that her tenderness yesterday, after she had brought him home, was merely an instinctive reaction—an echo of her almost-forgotten love for Peter Newhall—of which her conscious self made no interpretation.

The girl looked breathlessly into Pete's haggard face. Fortunately he did not guess the full truth: that her genuine relief was not at having her lover come again, but only because it permitted her to escape from her own doubts and fears.

She left the camp and trodged up the hill to meet Ivan. He waved to her, a motion brimming with vitality and spirit; and he was graceful as a caribou as he hastened to join her. Evidently the hard trip had left him unscathed. He was slightly more brown, perhaps, not quite so well groomed if for no other reason than he had left his shaving kit in camp, but there was no visible trace of fatigue in his dark, handsome face; no change in his easy, graceful carriage.

He held the girl close, and she felt the steel of his muscles. There was a world of reassurance here. When she returned to her native city, Ivan at her side, when all the witchery of this savage land had paled into dreams, she had every chance to find a full share of happiness in these strong arms.

"Was the trip a success?" she asked, radiant from his kiss.

"Do you think I'd come back if it weren't? I had the best kind of luck. I didn't even get clear to the Pacific shore. A few miles this side I ran into a squaw, laying out a trap line. I got her to go back to her cabin on the coast and get a load of supplies for us, and bring it over as fast as she can—hard bread and canned goods and things we can use on the trip. She may get here tonight—she's certain to make it in by tomorrow morning. Then we can take the dory and start out—back to God's country."

"You started back as soon as you'd made arrangements with her?"

"Yes. There was no use to go on. She could bring all the grub she could spare without my help. Besides—I couldn't bear to be away from you any longer."

They walked arm-in-arm down to the camp, and Pavlof glowed at his master's greeting. "You've been comfortable?" he asked the girl.

"Perfectly. Pete has taken the best possible care of me."

"I'm glad to hear it. We'll add something fancy to his check when we pay him off." He followed Dorothy into her tent, and after she had told him of Pete's accident he caught her yielding hands. "Dear, I've come back successful, and now I've got something to ask. It's the biggest thing in the world, but it's for your happiness as well as mine."

The girl tried to meet his vivid, magnetic eyes. By a supreme effort she shut from her mind the whisper of fear and the last lingering doubt, and opened her heart to his pleading. "I don't think I can refuse you anything now," she told him.

The slanting eyes glowed like great jewels in the eye sockets of a heathen idol. "We'll be starting tomorrow," he went on. "You and I and the two natives—Pete, I understand, is going to stay here and winter on the mainland. Dear, we have a long, difficult trip before us. We will be tied up at various places on account of bad weather, we will have to fight storms and rough seas—it will be a cold, tough, severe experience the best we can do. Besides that, it's really dangerous."

"But why think of the danger? There isn't any other course open."

"That's just it—there isn't any other course. We can't stay here much longer; winter is likely to break any day. We can't wait any longer for the Warrior to return. But I've got a special reason for pointing out the dangers—dangers that only a fool would deny. It's wholly possible, Dorothy, that the trip will actually put an end to us. There will be constant danger of sudden storms—of being wrecked and lost on the reefs. It's a perilous trip, at best.

"It's best, on a trip like that, that I should be able to look after you and be responsible for you in a much greater degree than I have on this trip. But the main thing is—that if we are to go down to our deaths in the next few days, we want to find the greatest possible happiness first. I know a way that we can be sure of at least a few hours of perfect happiness—that death can never cheat us out of."

"Be merry," she quoted quietly, "for tomorrow ye may die!"

"That is the philosophy—the only possible philosophy. Not only to be merry, but to take all that life offers—and not let foolish conventionality or propriety stand in the way. Dorothy, we love each other. We belong to each other. And there is no reason on earth why we should be kept apart any more.

"Pavlof is a native priest, as you already know. The marriages he performs are legal in all this end of the world. A marriage performed when a license is not procurable stands forever just the same, and all the legal end of it could be straightened up when we get to Seward. As for conventionalities—it is much more conventional to take that trip as my wife, even taking into consideration the character of the wedding service and everything else, than to go unchaperoned with three men. Ordinarily I would prefer to be married in old St. Paul's, as we have often talked of—with the flowers, and the music, and the beauty, and all that goes with it—yet you won't feel any lack of solemnity. The sea behind you and the winter clouds above, and those gray cliffs in front will thrill you as much as any vaulted ceiling of a cathedral. The sky and the sea and the cross over Peter's grave!"

His face was stark white. Evidently the idea of this marriage in the wilderness had fired Ivan's imagination. It appealed to some primitive part of him that she had never fully understood, and to which she could not reach.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BEDTIME STORIES

By HOWARD GARIS

(Copyright, 1924 by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LOOKING GLASS

One day, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping along the path that led through the woods, he suddenly heard a voice calling to him:

"Come on in! Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Come on in!"

"Hum" thought Mr. Longears to himself as he looked back over his shoulder. "If that is the Skillery Scallery Alligator inviting me into his den, or the Bob Cat wanting me to play scratch tag with the little Bob Cats, I'm not going to do it! Not if I can hop away!"

The rabbit gentleman gathered his paws together for a quick jump, when the voice called again:

"Come on in, Uncle Wiggily! Come in and play with my doll and me!"

The rabbit gentleman pinkled his twink nose, which is the same as twinkling a pink nose, only backward, and he said:

"That doesn't sound like the voice of any of the bad chaps." Then he looked around and saw Susie Littletail, the rabbit girl, standing in the doorway of a cute little house, waving her paw at him. I mean Susie was waving her paw—not the play house, for a play house hasn't any paw, you know.

"What are you doing there, Susie?" asked Mr. Longears.

Look at yourself, Claribell Paregoric!

"I am having fun in the play house with my doll Claribell Paregoric," answered the little rabbit girl. "Come on over and see us, please."

So the rabbit gentleman, flopping his ears frontward and backward, hopped across the path and up a little way into the woods, where Susie's father had made her a play house from white birch bark. Very cute and pretty it was, too.

"Wait until I come out and then you can go in," said Susie. "'Cause my play house isn't large enough for two of us to be in at the same time. I even have to squeeze my doll Claribell Paregoric to get her in with me. But then, as she's a rag doll, squeezing doesn't hurt."

"That's good," said Uncle Wiggily. He went in the cute little house, where Susie and her doll played. He saw a tiny little bed for the rag dol, little dishes, chairs, a table and a bureau—all doll sizes.

"I don't s'pose you have a doll's looking glass, have you, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Susie, as the rabbit gentleman hopped out of the play house.

"A doll's looking glass, my dear? Why, no, I haven't anything like that," answered Mr. Longears.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Susie.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, I want, so much, a doll's looking glass so Claribell Paregoric can see to comb her hair," said Susie. "She has everything but a looking glass. They have lovely ones down at the seven and eight cent store, but mother said I must not spend the money for one. Anyhow, I haven't the money to spend. I s'pose you have the money, Uncle Wiggily, but then I'm not allowed to ask you for the money. Mother wouldn't like it. Though, of course, if you wanted to buy yourself a doll's looking glass and then if you wanted to give it to me for Claribell Paregoric, I couldn't stop you; could I?" asked Susie. "'Cause—now—you're bigger than I am, Uncle Wiggily."

"Yes, Susie, I am a little bigger," said Uncle Wiggily. "And I would be glad to buy your doll a looking glass, but I think your mother must have a good reason for not wanting you to have one."

"Yes," answered Susie, "she says I have spent all the money I can have this week, and I mustn't ask for any more. But of course if you were to give me some—of your own accord, I couldn't stop you; could I?" and she looked at Uncle Wiggily in a queer teasing way.

All of a sudden the bunny gentleman glanced at the ground and gave a little jump.

"Susie!" he cried, "If I found a looking glass for your doll that would do as well; wouldn't it?"

"Of course!" cried Susie. "But where could you find one?"

"Right here!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and from the path he picked up a piece of bright, shinning tinfoil that had been on a piece of gum. Uncle Wiggilyy smoothed out the tinfoil, until there wasn't a wrinkle or a crease in it. Then he wrapped it around a bit of flat birch bark, with a little piece of bark sticking down for ahandle.

"There's your doll's looking glass, Susie!" he said, handing it to the little rabbit girl. "And, it didn't cost anything."

"Oh, thank you!" cried Susie. "Mother said I ought to learn to make things for myself, instead of always spending money for them. But I never before knew how. Oh, this is a lovely glass! Look at yourself Claribell Paregoric!" And the rag doll looked at herself in the glass and smiled the least little bit.

And then, all of a sudden, the bad Bob Cat came creeping up the hill to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears. But Susie flashed her looking glass of tinfoil in the sun, and the sun shone in the eyes of the Bob Cat and made him sneeze.

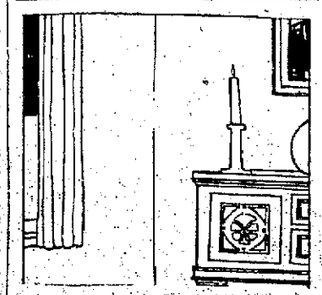

"Ker choo! Ker chool! Ker chool" he sneezed and he fell down and bumped his nose and then he ran away. So he didn't nibble the bunny's ears after all.

"Oh, I'm so glad I made him run away," said Susie. Then she combed Claribell Paregoric's hair and let her look in the tinfoil glass again and after that the rag doll went to sleep.

So if the sponge cake doesn't play tag in the bath tub instead of jumping over the table with the knife and fork, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily at the spring.

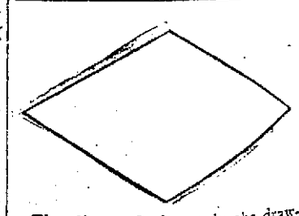

HOME FURNISHING

Bright Object

A room may be brightened up considerably by placing bright colored objects on the side away from the windows.

Daily Puzzle

The diamond shown in the drawing may be cut into three pieces, which, when fitted together, will form a Greek cross, with all four arms of the cross equal in length.

Can you divide the diamond and form the cross?

Monday's answer:

The numbers are 21 and 172.

The difference between them is 151.

If the smaller is divided by 8 there will be a remainder of 5. (21-16—5).

If the larger has 4 added to it it will be divisible by 11. (172 plus 4—176).

"'What do you mean?' I asked. 'You know Leslie's necklace is only a string of imitation beads. You gave it to her yourself.'

"She didn't deign to answer but took Karl's arm and preceded us to the motor."

Oh, little Marquise, I wish I hadn't promised Karl not to tell. If I had not I would then and there have told mother the whole story.

I am going to put those pearls in the little secret drawer here and keep them out of my sight for a long time.

It is a strange thing that while I have been perfectly innocent in this matter those ill-fated gems have made me unhappy ever since my marriage, and now because I foolishly told Karl I would keep them I can't even tell Jack about them. As Ruth says, Jack might forgive me the pearls because he would realize that at first I did not know they were real, but he would never forgive me for letting Karl pay $15,000 to keep the string intact.

As it is, I have just got to sit tight and hope for the best.

DAILY MOVIE NOTES

"Boy of Mine" Is Real Picture

Irene Rich and Ben Alexander

By JACK JUNGMEYER

HOLLYWOOD—Every American boy has a friend at the court of parental autocracy in the person of William Beaudine, motion picture director.

"Boy of Mine," made from Booth Tarkington's story, gives him that status. As a screen play it has exceptional merit. But it is even more laudable as a sensitive treatment of childhood's crucial hours, especially in defense of the juvenile's sharp sense of justice so flagrantly violated by elders in the name of discipline.

Beaudine, himself a family man and one of those rare adults who take time to fathom childish motives, understands the dramatic vigor of domestic commonplace. His ingredients are very simple, but profoundly effective.

The picture unfolds the misunderstanding between a father and son, amusingly, pathetically, trenchantly. The father is a man of intense family pride. The boy's energies, often devastating; his consortings with the junkman's son; his gusty relish of food; his noisy intrusions upon the father's preoccupations; his behavior in church; his forgetfulness of parental commands—all these manifestations of irrepressible youth discomfort the man to the point of harsh reaction.

In this family—though it's often the other way round—the mother is the comforter and buffer. And, eventually, the father's attitude brings the elders to the verge of divorce, after the boy, feeling himself responsible for the rift, runs away. Reconciliation comes when a young doctor persuades the boy to return and convince the father of his folly.

Ben Alexander gives such a convincing, poignant portrayal that every family will recognize in him the counterpart of an ebullient son.

Household Hints

BROILING FISH

To broil fish split it, brush over on either side with soft butter or oil, and place on a broiler over the gas flame or a bed of coals.

KEEP MOIST

The cut slices of fruit, such as melons and pineapples, may be kept moist by turning them cut side down on a plate or by placing a piece of waxed paper over them.

DRY CHEESE

Dry cheese should be grated and kept in a covered jar. Cheese may be kept moist by wrapping it in oiled paper or in cloth kept wet with vinegar.

SOFT FRUITS

Soft fruits like berries will keep better if they are taken out of the box and poured in a shallow pan and kept out of the refrigerator.

RESTORING VELVET

Raise the pile of crushed velvet by stretching over a wet cloth laid on the face of a very hot iron and brushing hard while the steam rises.

CLOVES WITH TEA

Serve a few cloves as well as lemon with your afternoon tea. Candied cherries, too, are relished by many.

Build Pump House Over City's West Side Well

Construction of the pump house at well No. 13, W. Washington ave. and Park st., was started Monday afternoon by the city water department. The building will cost $5,000, of which the Layne-Bowler Co., will pay $2,500 and the city the remainder.

Madison Screen And Stage

AT THE PARKWAY

"All quarrels can be avoided if your husband will do just as you say." "It's queer more men are not doctors—they've such a good excuse to get out at night." These are some of the subtitles taken from Viola Dana's latest picture, coming to the Parkway theater tomorrow for three days. Miss Dana appeares as a smart, young suburban wife who bumps along the road of matrimony with jealous outbreaks marking each bump. A two reel comedy, "Getting Gertie's Goat," an overture played by the Parkway orchestra and an organ solo by Miss MsIntosh will complete the program. Tommy Meighan in "The Confidence Man," will be shown for the last times today.

AT THE ORPHEUM

The greatest American comedy ever written, "The First Year," the play which ran for two solid years at the Little Theater and 72 weeks on the road, has been secured by Manager Jackson for the next presensation at the Orpheum. "The First Year," is known as a "comic tragedy of married life." It tells a straight story of what happened in one of the "best families." For the balance of this week the local company will put on that great melodramatic comedy, "7 Keys to Baldpate."

AT THE MAJESTIC

Lovers of Bryant Washburn will be overjoyed at seeing him in an entirely new type of characterization. That of a young fellow from the far north who has made his pile and won the sobriquet of "Alaska Kid." Mr. Washburn appears in "Other Men's Daughters" in this role at the Majestic theater. The supporting cast includes Mabel Forest, Wheeler Oakman, Kathleen Kirkham, Sidney deGrey and Martha Franklin. A delightful comedy, "A Perfect Pest" with Jimmy Aubrey will be sure to please you. Topics and News Weekly will also be shown.

AT THE MADISON

Mildred Tane of San Pedro, Cal., is the world's first motion picture stowaway. Members of the "Code of the Sea" company found her hidden aboard the yacht Louise, which was being used by the motion picture people outside of San Pedro harbor for water scenes. The Louise had been at sea for four hours before the girl revealed herself.

"I've tried to get in the movies in every way and failed," she confided to Jacqueline Logan, co-featured with Rod LaRocque in "Code of the Sea." Director Fleming made he a guest for the remainder of the day. Later Miss Tane got her first chance before the camera at the studios in a house party sequence in "Code of the Sea."

REPORT OF THE MARKETS

June 18, 1924

Wheat, Corn Make Swift Climb Today

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Wheat and corn went up with a rush today as soon as the market oened. All deliveries of both cereals jumped to new high price records for the season, a sharp advance in wheat quotations at Liverpool was largely responsible for the ascent of the market here, especially Winnipeg prices showed even more strength than was the case in Chicago. Heavy profit-taking sales on the advance, however, led to considerable reaction from top figures. The opening which ranged from ½c to 1⅛c higher July 1.16 to 1.16¼ and September $1.17¼ to 1.17½ was followed by a rise that amounted to nearly two cents in some cases before a setback took place.

The close was unsettled, at ⅝ to 1⅛c net advance, July $1.16½@1.16⅝ and Sept. $1.17⅝@1.17.

CORN—Offerings of corn were remarkably scarce. Prospect of a revision of railway freight rates east of Chicago was a bullish factor. After opeing ⅝@1c higher, July 83⅝@84, the market climbed rapidly.

The close was strong 2⅝ to 3⅝c net higher, July 86¼ to 86⅝.

OATS—Oats derived strength from the action of corn and wheat. Starting unchanged to ⅜c up, July 46¾ prices soared a moderate general advance.

PROVISIONS—Higher quotations on hogs helped to lift the provision market.

Produce

CHICAGO CHEESE MARKET

CHICAGO—The cheese market yesterday continued quiet at listed prices. A trifle firmer undertone was noted, as a result of firm conditions in country markets. It was difficult to pick up cheese that would allow a profit at present prices. Stocks were moderate especially on full grass cheese. The held cheese market was firm with some sales in small lots.

CHICAGO—Trading rather quiet, market dull, receipts new 50, old 15 cars, total U. S. shipuments new 353, old 72; Wisconsin sacked round whites 1.50@1.35; fancy shade higher; Alabama and Louisiana sacked Bliss Trimuphs 2.00@2.40, according to condition; Texas and Oklahoma sacked Bliss Triumphs 2.00; Carolina barrel cobblers 3.50@3.85.

MILWAUKEE DAIRY

MILWAUKEE—Butter weak, extras 38; standards 37½.

Eggs firm 24½.

Poultry steady; fowls 22;

Potatoes weak 1.15@1.25; new $2.75@4.00.

Onions steady 2.00@2.25.

CHICAGO DAIRY

CHICAGO — Butter lower, receipts 15,47? tubs. Firsts 36½@37.

Ccheese unchanged.

Eggs lower; receipts 20,100 cases; firsts 25@25¾.

Poultry alive, unsettled; fowls 22@24; broilers 32@41; roosters 14½.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR

MINNEAPOLIS—Flour unchanged to 10c higher. In carload lots, family patents quoted at 7.10@7.30 a barrel in 98 lb. cotton sacks. Shipments 35,070 barrels.

Bran 20,00.

Livestock

Stock Prices Mixed; Oils Take Slump

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Conflicting price movements marked the opening of today's stock market, as numerous shares, notably the oils offered poor resistance to selling pressure while others showed the effects of confident buying. Fluctuations mainly were confined to moderate fractions but Atlantic Refining was an exception, dropping 1 3-4 points. Accumulation of tobacco issues was resumed, Schulte advancing smartly.

With oil shares continuing to display marked sensitiveness to unsettled trade conditions and with support lacking for some motor and accessory issues, prices developed a heavier tone after opening orders had been disposed of. Several low priced rails yielded sharply, including St. Louis and Southwestern, Atlantic Refining extended its early loss to almost 3 points, touching a new low figure for the year along with Royal Dutch. Tidewater Oil, Chandler and Woolworth also eased off. Chemicals and Public Utilities however, were purchased. Brooklyn Union Gas, selling at the year's highest price, led an advance in local gas issues, Baldwin "Nickel Plate" and Utah Copper moved up a point each. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 700,000 shares.

Lake Kegonsa.

Miss Elza Tennart of Madison, was a Stoughton caller yesterday. Miss Tannart and mother are spending the summer at the Stoddard cottage at Colloday's park, where they will shortly be joined by Mrs. Stoddard, who will arrive from Lincoln, Neb.

C. A. Peters had on display yesterday at the meat market of the Dane County Packing Co., West Main st., what is conceded to be the largest pike ever caught in Lake Kegonsa. It weighed over 6½ pounds. The lucky fisherman was Miss Maxine Peters, his daughter, who had a struggle in landing it, while the father guided the boat to help along. It was captured directly int from the Peters cottage in Lincoln Park. The pike was of the wall-eyed variety. The said pike, perculiar to Kegonsa, is fish of a finer make. Mr. Peters thinks that the wall-eyed pike worked its way up the Yahara river while the dams were out some years ago. Alfred Peterson, foreman for H. W. Scott, caught a pike of over 6 pounds at the sand bar in the same locality on Monday evening.

The Stoughton Rebekah lodge meets in regular session on Friday evening and candidates will be initiated.

Mrs. Carl Everson and children were given a farewell party at the Franz Tensfeldt cottage, Camp Brooklyn on Monday. They left yesterday for Beloit, to join Mr. Everson, pharmacist in that city.

Mrs. Gustav Torrison has returned to Manitowoc after a sojourn in her cottage, located at Camp Columbia.

Tobacco Notes

According to Mr. Krekling, in from the Stoughton neighborhood yesterday, cut-worms are doing damage in planted fields. Farmers are now rushing the work of transplanting, nevertheless. The evil effect of cut worms is that the growth may become uneven, as the destroyed plants are usually replaced.

Says the Janesville Gazette:

"A preliminary survey of tobacco plant beds by the state department of agriculture shows that wildfire is again occurring on several farms in the northern section of Dane county.

"The plants for the most part are yet too small to estimate what the final damage may be in the beds. In some instances only traces of the disease are visible, whereas in other cases the diseased areas are quite generally distributed over the bed. Young plants are frequently killed by the disease, but the most characteristic symptom is a leaf spot with a yellow border which finally develops into a "rust spot," different, however, from ordinary rust.

"Wildfire did not develop to a serious extent in Wisconsin last year where plants from deseased beds were transplanted to the field, as happened in a few cases. This was owing to the unusually dry weather.

Judging from this, some growers who are unfortunate enough to have the disease in the plant beds this spring, say that they are "not afraid of wildfire."

"Growers are advised not to be misled by such statements and to use all possible precaution to prevent setting out even slightly diseased plants. Growers who do set out plants from diseased beds should recognize that they are taking a big chance, on a disease capable of doing as much damage to their crop as last year's frost.

F. G. Swoboda, Plymouth, manager of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' federation, was elected president of the new Wisconsin Cooperative Council, organized at a conference of some 50 agricultural leaders in the state capitol.

J. J. Lamb, Fond du Lac, of the Equity Co-operative Stock Sales company, was chosen as vice president, and H. W. Ullsperger, general manager, Door County Fruit Growers' Union, secretary-treasurer.

As finally approved, membership in the council includes the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' federation; Foreign Cheese Producers federation; Wisconsin-Co-operative Creameries association; Co-operative Live Stock Sales association. Door County Fruit Growers association, Northern Wisconsin Co-operative Tobacco Pool, Wisconsin Cranberry Sales company, Milwaukee Producerss association and representatives of milk producers supplying cities and manufacturing firms.

Tenth Ward—$10,000

A home with every comfort and convenience that has been kept in beautiful condition. Hardly a year old. Six rooms and sun parlor. Garage. Two blocks from the Wingra Park car line and in the Randall School district. An attractive home reasonably priced.

West Johnson Street

A home of eight rooms. Excellent condition. Located between the University and Capitol Square. Garage. It can be purchased on a small first payment and very easy monthly installments. Buy this home instead of renting—a sure way to save for the future.

Mendota Beach

More like a permanent all-year-round home than a summer cottage. 66 foot lot about 200 feet in depth down to a sandy beach. A new house with regular living room, dining room and kitchen. Four bedrooms and toilet on second floor. Large screened porch. Fireplace. Two car garage. Immediate possession can be had.

West Lawn Avenue

Not a new home—but a home that radiates comforts and establishment in every nook and corner. It has been kept in excellent condition by the owner. Located on a beautiful corner lot with vines and shrubbery of many years' care and attention. Four bedrooms. Fireplace. Garage. The price has been reduced $1500 and we consider this property one of the best "buys" in the city.

Bungalow — $6900

A modern practically new bungalow on the West Side. Fireplace. Garage and other attractive features. It can be purchased on $1500 down and monthly payments. For perfectly good reasons the owner wishes to sell now and has dropped his price from $7500 to $6900. Just the home for a small family.

A Little Tip to Mr. Motorist

Does your car overheat because of improper radiator circulation?

If so, you can easily clean it yourself and save time and money by using a mixture of lye and sodium phosphate. Pour it in the radiator while the motor is running, and leave the solution in for two days.

BUT IF THIS TIP FAILS, COME IN AND LET US EQUIP YOUR CAR WITH A HARRISON RADIATOR OR CORE, IN USE ON ALL GENERAL MOTORS. Repair Work of All Kinds Done on RADIATORS, FENDERS, AND BODIES

Hail To The W Crew

WHAT A thrill must have been experienced by the thousands of loyal sons and daughters of old Wisconsin, scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific, when the wonderful news was flashed from under the historic bridge at Poughkeepsie yesterday. Not since the days when little Joe Dillon steered a winning Wisconsin crew into a berry crate and victory was turned into defeat—not since that memorable day over a quarter of a century ago has Wisconsin had reason to feel so proud of a crew.

A perusal of this morning's papers shows that Wisconsin was the hero of yesterday's race even in defeat. The great showing made by those sturdy young men in Cardinal won the admiration of the 50,000 people who lined the Hudson for the annual classic. Rowing experts in the east did not give Wisconsin a chance to place better than fourth,—and to-day said experts are rubbing their eyes and wondering what happened.

To-day gallant Dad Vail and his boys are receiving the praise of the thousands who always pay tribute to men who are game and have stout hearts. Incidentally it is pleasing to note that two Dane county boys were in the boat yesterday,—Capt. Ralph Schuetz of Middleton (Middleton ought to feel happy to-day) and Oscar Teckemeyer of Madison.

THE SHOWING of Wisconsin was all the more impressive when the adverse conditions under which Dad Vail and his boys labored are considered. It must be remembered that this is the first time that Wisconsin has appeared on the Hudson since 1914. Not one man, therefore, who was in the Wisconsin boat yesterday had ever participated in the eastern classic before. In the shells of the other universities were men who had already participated in the annual contest and who "knew the ropes." Familiarity with a course is a big asset in such a contest.

Madisonians who are familiar with weather conditions that have prevailed here in recent months know what limited opportunity the boys have had to get practice in Madison. While the Washington crew, which won the race, has been out on the water since January the Wisconsin crew had but a few days when they could get any worthwhile practice. The lakes here were unusually late in opening and after they did open the weather was such as to prevent consistent practice work.

TO DAD VAIL, Capt. Schuetz and the members of the crew Wisconsin extends the hand of congratulation on the great showing made yesterday. It is one of the brightest pages in the annals of years which have made the Wisconsin spirit known wherever men with red blood assemble.

When these boys who have brought glory to Wisconsin return from the Hudson let's give them a welcome that will be commensurate with the honor that they have brought to the campus on the hill.

The Thing That Never Dies

PECULIAR experience of a certain fiction writer: He had a rush order from a magazine, so he went far into the Canadian woods to write the story—a novelet. Out in the woods, two days' trip from even a village, his typewriter broke down.

The fiction writer tried writing with pen and ink. Then he made the curious discovery that he couldn't get his brain functioning to write unless his fingers were touching typewriter keys. This is a not uncommon experience of all writers, including newspapermen.

The typewriter, for all practical purposes, has become a definite and indispensable part of their bodies.

Some writers sit down at the typewriter and rattle off several hundred words that go promptly into the wastebasket, just to start their brains functioning.

WHAT would Babe Ruth be in baseball if he didn't have a bat? He is not Babe Ruth, the popular idol, until he gets his fingers wrapped around a bat. The bat has become a definite part of his physical expression of himself.

The greatest violinist is an ordinary man unless he has a violin in his hands. He cannot express himself without his violin, any more than a bricklayer can express himself without bricks or trowel and mortar.

The gold beater is a man of phenomenal skill—but the skill is absent unless he has his beaters and other instruments.

THE famous creative architect, Louis H. Sullivan, once commented that all inventions are merely an extension of man's fingers. The shovel, for instance, is simply an extension or elaboration of the cupped fingers and palm. A pair of ice tongs is an extension of lifting human arms.

The body of man is a machine for expressing himself and his function or purpose in this life. So are shovels, typewriters and other inventions which man has added to assist his body.

It makes us wonder whether, when death comes, the Real Self is affected any more than when a shoveler breaks his shovel. The force that handles the shovel continues. That force is man's spirit or soul. The same force uses the physical body as its machine or tool. Death eliminates the worn out or damaged machine. The guiding force lives on.

I submit the following definition: "The Practical Idealist, one who adjusts standards of excellence to present limitations."—Elbert E. Barker, Eau Claire, Wis.

FROM WATERLOO, WIS.

[To the Editor]:—I submit—in answer to your request in "TODAY," Capital Times, June 14th—that the correct definition of the term, "Practical Idealist", is: "One with ideals presently safe and workable." However, I don't think that Coolidge has any claim on such a title; he's not an idealist, he's an Easterner! —James D. Hyer, Waterloo, Wis.

COMING

The foundation of five years of the greatest prosperity America has ever seen is now being laid, says C. W. Barron, the Wall Street financial expert.

He gives several reasons, but overlooks the most important one: A nation is like an individual. During the war we exerted ourselves tremendously. Then, tired out, we loafed until we recuperated. That period of rest was what we called business depression. Now we're gradually getting back to top-speed work. Hard times are simply periods of national resting and recuperation.

LABOR

Many of the large business leaders, discussing the business slump, are beginning to talk about "readjustment of wages."

The other side, whose wages are involved, will retort: "Then how about readjustment of cost of living?"

Many still are deluded by the belief that wartime profits can be restored. They are crying for the moon

The Capital Times Washington Letter

Washington Bureau
The Capital Times

WASHINGTON, D. C.—"What will La Follette do?"

This is the question politicians of every party and faction are asking in Washington today, and it appears doomed to remain unanswered until after the Democrats have concluded their proceedings.

Meanwhile, scores of rumors are afloat, in which the Senator figures as the enigma of the 1924 campaign.

One report busily circulated is to the effect that La Follette is searching for a running-mate and has been making overtures to a number of likely prospects.

Chairman Huston Thompson of the Federal Trade Commission, Senator Wheeler of Montana, Senator Brookhart of Iowa, and Senator Norris of Nebraska, are reported to have received invitations to make the race with "Bob."

While the Senator has declined to be interviewed on any subject at this stage, it is learned that the reports linking his name with all the potential candidates mentioned are without foundation.

The Cleveland convention last week furnished the basis for the report that the La Follette forces had settled upon Brookhart or Norris. On the vice-presidential balloting at Cleveland, the Wisconsin Progressives voted first for Senator Norris and later for Senator Brookhart. This procedure followed the precedent set in 1920 when the La Follette delegates cast a complimentary ballot for the late Senator Gronna, who had made a record in the Senate satisfactory to the Wisconsin delegation. It is a certainty that the action of the Badgers at Cleveland had no significance so far as the selection of a vice-presidential candidate on an independent ticket is concerned.

The fact is not concealed that La Follette's friends have been giving serious thought to the question of a running mate, in case the Senator enters the campaign.

Many of his advisers believe it will be essential to name a Democrat, if the independent movement is to muster its full possible strength. The biggest obstacle to advance action has been the uncertainty of the results of the Democratic convention.

EVEN though La Follette should make the race with a Republican it appears a certainty he would not consent to the drafting of Senators Norris or Brookhart.

Both are candidates for re-election next November, and La Follette is determined nothing shall be done which would weaken the present strength of the Progressives in Congress. He will urge Brookhart and Norris to give first consideration to their own candidacies for the Senate.

The possibility has been suggested that Senator La Follette might make the race without a vice-presidential candidate on the ticket. There is a precedent for this procedure in the presidential election of 1840. In that year, Martin Van Buren was nominated for a second term by the Democratic convention, which adjourned without breaking a deadlock which had prevented the nomination of a running-mate. Van Buren ran alone and while he was narrowly defeated, he was not regarded as having lost strength because no vice-presidential candidate shared the ticket with him.

It has also been pointed out that the Democratic convention may name a thorough-going Progressive for Vice-President and that La Follette might be free to endorse such a candidate. Senator Wheeler has been mentioned in this connection, but his chances at New York are not regarded as bright. La Follette's friends, it can be stated, are not enthusiastic over such an endorsement, and it is extremely unlikely.

THE Federal aid highways system in Wisconsin now embraces 3,424 miles, according to the Bureau of public roads of the Department of Agriculture.

This system of highways has been designated by the state government and approved by the secretary of agriculture in accordance with the federal highway act of 1921, which provides that the state highway department shall designate a system of roads not exceeding 7 per cent of the total rural mileage for improvement with federal aid and on which the government is to pay up to 50 per cent of the total cost.

Appropriations aggregating $11,800,850 have been made to Wisconsin, with which up to April 30 last 1,286 miles of road had been completed, 150 miles were under construction, 9 miles are approved for construction and $3,045,269 is available for new projects not yet approved by the federal department.

From the $75,000,000 appropriation which will be made available for federal aid on July 1, Wisconsin will receive $1,877,600.32.

This assures the state against an interruption of road work now in progress, say federal officials.

CHEAPER TRANSPORTATION

The Pittsburgh steel mills are making intensive use of water transportation through the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, which enables them to lay their products down at New Orleans at a transportation cost of about $6 per ton, while the all-rail transportation cost is $10.30 per ton.—J. P. Haynes, Chicago Association of Commerce, before House Rivers and Harbors committee.

PLENTY OF DEBTS

The bonded indebtedness of the United States is some 15 or 20 times greater at the present time than it has been perhaps since the Civil war.—Senator Smith (D), South Carolina.

Here's a business mystery. Maybe you can explain it. So far, no one else has been able to.

Despite the sudden slackening of business during May, bank clearings (bank checks written the country over) continued mounting during May. They exceeded 36,693 million dollars—compared with only 32,883 million dollars in February when every one was working and spending full blast.

DAD'S DEN

HAL COCHRAN'S DAILY POEM

Of course father wanted a room of his own so he told Mom about it and then she fixed up a place where he'd be quite alone and the fam'ly all called it his den.

A desk and a lamp and a fine leather chair was the usual way to begin it. But now, in a week, you should see what is there; what a fine lot of trash there is in it.

The table is covered with marbles and tops and the bookcase is filled up with toys. A kite, from a string on the chandelier drops and the place is a hangout for boys.

For a day it was nice but it's not any more.
To a leather chair sonny's tied Rover. A lot of Dad's books are spread out on the floor where the youngster's been looking them over.

Ah, yes, 'tis a den; just a rest room for men and 'twas meant to make father feel glad. But the truth of the matter, mid clutter and clatter, it seems they all use it but dad.

Individuals may perish but truth is eternal.
—Joseph Gerrald.

DRY

No one is quite as optimistic as a professional prohibitionist. Maybe this is because, not having a thirst, they can't understand it in others.

Professional prohibitionists have been confidently telling the world that Great Britain is scheduled to be next on the water wagon. Lloyd's, the big London insurance agency, thinks otherwise. It is insuring British distillers against loss of their income by prohibition. And Lloyd's is betting 500 to 1 that Britain will continue wet.

Opinions

In Other Cities

In my experience there is no irreligion so complete as that of the young man or woman who is mentally alienated from faith but must still observe certain forms because of the pressure of the home or the community.
